Literary Notes.

The sales of The Century Magazin have gone up over 30,000 copies in six weeks, since beginning the Life of Linweeks, since beginning the Life of Lincoln. A second edition of December will be issued on the 15th. A veteran New York publisher predicts that the permanent edition of the magazine will go beyond 300,000 before the completion of the Lincoln history. The January installment, which is said by the editors to be of most surpassing interest, occupies thirty pages of the magazine, and treats of Mr. Lincoln's settlement in Springfield, his meetics of law in and treats of Mr. Lincoln's settlement in Springfield; his practice of law in that city; the Harrison campaign; Lincoln's marriage; his friendship with the Speeds of Kentucky; the Shields duel; and the campaign of 1844. The illustrations are numerous, including portraits of Joshua Speed and wife, of Mrs. Lucy G. Speed, Milton Hay, President Harrison, General Shields, William H. Harndon (the law partner of Mr. Lincoln (the law partner of Mr. L son, General Shields, William H., Herndon (the law partner of Mr. Lin-coln), and Mr. Lincoln himself, from the photograph presented by him to Mrs. Lucy G. Speed, in 1861. Pictures are given of the house where Lincoln was married, also the house where he lived after his marriage, etc., etc.

The January number of Arthur's Home Magazine is at hand, with an unusually attractive table of contents and charming illustrations. The short G. McClelland begins well, and promises to be one of the best by this rising young writer. In addition to the stories, women folks will find many things useful in its well-filled departments, and the illustrated bits of fancy work suitable for little, inexpensive presents are quite the right thing to keep fair fingers at work in the holiday season now at

The enlarged form of the Magazine is a great improvement upon its old style, and places the Home prominently be-fore the public as one of the best of the lower-cost monthly magazines. The price is but two dollars a year, with re-ductions and premiums for clubs. Sample copies, ten cents cach. T. S. Arthur & Son, Philadelphia, are the

WONDERFUL SURGERY.

A Piece of a Man's Back Bone Cut Out.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 .- A special dispatch from Cincinnati says: One of the rarest and most dangerous opera-tions in the scope of surgery has been lately performed at the Cincinnati hoslately performed at the Cincinnati hospital. It consisted to removing about three inches of the back bone and exposing the spinal cord. The patient was a colored man about 21 years of age. When first admitted to the hospital he was suffering from a terrible diseaso which had broken out over the head, neck and back in the form of large absesses, the chief one of which was about the middle of the back and had eaten away the back bone to a considerable extent. The poor follow could not lie in a recumbent position nor on his side in consequence of the extreme pain attending such a position, and was compelled to lie all the while on his face.

knife was going. In this region, where one slip of the knife or one false move would have been fatal to the patient, the surgeon with a chisel and hammer when it asks the question: "Is it in went down on the bone until he had cut out all that which was in any way affected, never touching the spinal cord.

All causes of suppuration and paralysis were removed and the surgeon felt, sits on her rock overlooking her mighty assured, power would return to the river, with a view that has few rivals in assured, power would return to the paralyzed legs; and that time would ac-complish the filling up of the place where the bone had formerly been.

The patient recovered from the ether and was placed in bed on his face. In three days motion returned to the legs, and he was able to move his feet for the first time in nearly a year. About the same time a sensation began to re-turn in the limbs. In about three weeks he could bear some weight on his legs and at the same time he as-sumed the position on his breast and knees which he has kept ever since. He at length became strong enough to stand, with assistance, and take a step or two. He is now able to walk to the end of the ward and sit down in a chair with comfort. Of course his back is yet weak, and probably never will re-gain its former power, but he will be a useful man. The wound has gradually closed up, leaving only a slight scar and causes him little of no pain.

OHALOW. Good fellowship, unfortunately, too requently hinders the cause of justice The enlprit, be he low in the social scale or without influence that is potent, is reasonably sure to receive punishment commensurate with his erime. He who steals that his family may have food to eat receives the penalty of his crime in a workhouse sentence, He who takes $100.000 from the vaults of a bank wherein he is employed and gambles it away in grain speculation is a good fellow, whom it would be too had to lock up in the penitentiary; let him have an opportunity to retrieve the past and earn a new reputation to replace the one that is lost. But the poor devi! who steals a sack of flour that his wife and children may not starve sees them left in want and misery, suffering for food and clothing and fire. while iron bars and ornel justice make him the medium of their misery.

Circumstances placed the poor man in a plane above which he could not rise. His environment was against him. Hard times and slack work reduced him to the last penny and not a loaf in the cupboard. Art and Literature in New York.

By the time the next generation appears, private libraries will probably be very few. The taste for making collections of books in the household certainly is not to-day what it was a genera-tion ago. Thirty or forty years past the place of books in the family was important. Most young people setting up housekeeping felt that a few volumes to set off the parlor or sitting-room were as essential as the usual furniture, and the beginning thus made was generally followed up as the household grew. A taste for books was regarded as an evidence of social merit, and visitors were shown the library, whether large or little, with as much satisfaction as is taken in showing pictures and brie-a brac to-day. The literary taste as shown in this way was even stronger a genera-tion earlier, and collections were made which would not be thought of at the are bought to read, not kept, and when read they are thrown away or sold for old paper. They must be of a light sort his face.

Slowly he had lost the power of motion and of sensation in his legs, so that he was completely paralyzed from the body down. It was decided that his only chance of life lay in an operation for the removal of a portion of the backbone, so as to stop the process of decay. He was then turned on his face and the surgeon made an incision down the spine. A large quantity of pus was revealed, and the cavity was sponged out vealed, and the cavity was sponged out a light sort too, clse they won't be read at all. All at the publishers complain that solid books do not sell any more, except in a limited way. The literary taste of the time is very much like the theatrical taste. The demand is for the kind of plays to laugh at and not think of at all. The change becomes more marked every year, and there is no reason to think it will not continue.—Cor. Detroit Free Press.

A leading journal strikes a true chord when it asks the question; "Is it in order to see walled towns that they (the intending traveler) would have gone to Europe?
